Amy Zelmer to become Associate Vice-President (Academic)

Dr. Amy E. Zelmer, Dean of Nursing since 1 August 1976, has been appointed successor to Dr. Jean K. Lauber as Associate Vice-President (Academic). Her term of office will begin on 1 July 1980.

Dr. Zelmer graduated from the Ottawa Civic Hospital School of Nursing in 1956, thereafter attending Dalhousie University where she gained a Diploma in Public Health Nursing. After graduation from Dalhousie, she worked with the Nova Scotia Department of Public Health before becoming a field worker with the Nova Scotia Society for Care of Crippled Children in 1959. In 1962, Dr. Zelmer returned to the maritime province's Department of Public Health, where she remained until 1965.

During the period Dr. Zelmer was employed in Nova Scotia, she studied for a master's degree in public health, having gained a bachelor's degree in nursing education from the University of Western Ontario in 1961. She gained the MPH in 1963 from the University of Michigan. In 1965,

Dr. Zelmer travelled west to become Director of Health Education for the Alberta Department of Public Health. Two years later, she received her first appointment at The University of Alberta in what is now the Faculty of Extension.

In 1972, Dr. Zelmer took up two new positions, lecturing part-time in early childhood education at Grant MacEwan Community College and, part-time for 1972-73, serving the University as an Assistant Professor and Coordinator of continuing education for our School of Nursing and the Division of Health Services Administration. In 1973, she gained a PhD in Adult Education from Michigan State University.

Dr. Zelmer's interest in health education extends beyond the borders of our country. In January 1975, she assumed a position with the World Health Organization as a health education specialist. Based in India, Dr. Zelmer and her colleagues were responsible for providing support services for educational activities in ten Asian countries. In 1976, Dr. Zelmer returned once more to the University to succeed Dr. Ruth McLure as Dean of the Faculty of Nursing.

Dr. Zelmer's predecessor as Associate Vice-President (Academic), Dr. Lauber, will embark on a study leave before returning to her duties as Professor of Zoology. □

Matrimonial and Child Support an ILRR Project

The Institute of Law Research and Reform (ILRR) is a body established by the Government of Alberta, The University of Alberta and the Law Society of Alberta. Its objectives are to conduct and direct research into law and the administration of justice, and to consider matters of law reform.

The Institute of Law Research and Reform wants to make recommendations concerning the reform of laws and legal procedures related to maintenance orders. At present, very little is known about the characteristics of maintenance orders and the real life difficulties people have in paying them or in receiving payment.

The Institute of Law Research and Reform has therefore contracted the Canadian Institute for Research, Calgary (CIR) to conduct a study, "Matrimonial and Child Support: Incidence and Reasons for Payment or Default."

As part of this study, CIR will conduct a door-to-door survey of 700 people who are involved with maintenance orders in Edmonton and Calgary. Their experiences and opinions are vital, if future law reforms are to be based on a firm foundation.

During December and January, CIR researchers will be visiting a random sample of households in the two cities. The Institute requests that the people visited give their full cooperation. It is realized that some of the questions that will be asked may be of a sensitive nature. Accordingly, every effort has been made to ensure that respondents remain anonymous and that all replies will be kept strictly confidential and will be used purely for research purposes by the Institute. □

Student Research Day

Thirty-three students took part in the Twelfth Annual Student Research Day, 24 October. Student Research Day was first held in 1969 and is sponsored by the Faculty of Medicine in honor of Dr. Michael A. Emery. Dr. Emery, a former Research Associate in Orthopaedic Surgery of the Faculty of Medicine, was an outstanding teacher and scientist. He died in a car accident 20 August 1967 at the early age of thirty-four.

Student Research Day serves to recognize excellence in research conducted by undergraduate students. Recognition is in the form of an honorary award and a cash prize. The prizes are made possible by contributions from Dr. Emery's family, friends, and colleagues, to the Michael Emery Memorial Fund.

Top honors and cash awards were given to three students for their work. Maureen Shandling received her second award in two years. Her work was on "Antibody Mediated Targeting of a Soluble Asparaginase Albumin Polymer to Specific Cells." Carla Giuffre's work led to a paper titled "The Possible Role of Paramyxoviruses in Breaking Tolerance to Cellular Actin." Bruce Yacyshyn received his award for "Ontogeny of B Cells to Major Histocompatibility Antigens."

Students who received honorable mention for their work were: Grant Campbell, R. Garnett, Richard Bergstrom, John Epps, Nora Ghali, and A. Fawcett. □

Eight blind students from Waverly School fought below seasonal temperatures to visit the University to experience a "Christmas tree" in its natural habitat. The Office of Community Relations arranged the visit where above, their teacher, Lynn Patching, explains to the students via touch and feel.

Benita Fifield, Acting Dean, Faculty of Rehabilitation Medicine, presented a paper at the combined annual conference of The American Congress of Rehabilitation Medicine and The American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation Medicine, held in Honolulu, 11-17 November 1979. In her presentation, Professor Fifield reported the results of a study conducted by herself and Ms. R. Meston, entitled, "Teaching Methods and Curriculum Placement for a Course in Human Sexuality and Communication Skills for Occupational Therapy Students."

Heidi Kass, Department of Secondary Education, Faculty of Education, is the recipient of an award presented by the National Association for Research in Science Teaching for research with practical applicability in science teaching in the classroom. Her research paper is entitled "The Mole Concept: Investigation of an Hierarchical Model." Dr. Kass has been asked to present her paper at the next National Science Teachers Association Convention in New York.

The Legal Resource Centre

The Legal Resource Centre of the Faculty of Extension finds its origins in the ideas generated by "the turbulence of the '60s" when some segments of society began to question authority and campaign for personal control over our lives. Many people believed that the law was working for and was protected by the rich. Societies once content to live by the rulings of the establishment wanted to understand and become an influential part of the legal system.

The Alberta Law Foundation and other interested persons aware of the growing concern in our society called a meeting in 1974 to determine what commitment they were prepared to make in favor of educating the public. As a result of this meeting a group of interested people formed the Legal Resource Centre of Alberta Ltd., a non-profit company registered as a charitable organization.

The Alberta Law Foundation was in support of the Centre, but was not prepared to forward funds until the objectives of the Centre were put into operation with some degree of success. In the fall of 1975, the Legal Resource Centre of Alberta Ltd. and the Department of Extension (now the Faculty of Extension) agreed to establish a centre to carry out the objectives of the Legal Resource Centre of Alberta Ltd. In accordance with the arrangements made, the company raises funds for and advises the Faculty of Extension in its operation of the Legal Resource Centre. The Centre is now funded entirely by the Alberta Law Foundation.

The objectives and goals of the Legal Resource Centre are: "to contribute to, advance and promote the legal knowledge and education of the people of Canada; to sensitize people to the impact of law on the personal, social, political and economic aspects of life; to increase the understanding of the role of the individual in the legal process; and to increase the ability of the individual to become involved in the legal process."

Since 1975 the Centre has offered a variety of public education programs and services. Among these services is the Centre's library, consisting of over 3,500 books, 150 periodicals, 250 pamphlet titles and over 300 audio-visual materials including video and audio records, slides, films, overhead transparencies, kits, and games. The majority of the materials in the library were written for the general public. Most of the library's resources may be borrowed either in person or by mail.

A good reference for people interested in the law is a book published by the Centre, People and the Law: Bibliography of Public Legal Education. Along similar lines is a catalogue of audio-visual materials dealing with many aspects of law. The Centre's lists and bibliographies are divided into general readings, selected readings, and bibliographies. The selected readings list features topics such as battered women, general texts in law for high school students, and children's rights and the courts.

The Centre issues a free publication, Resource News, eleven times each year. The publication keeps recipients informed of events in public legal education and services in their region. Several regular columns in the publication introduce readers to new books and media reviews, audio-visual materials, examine new legislation, and give advice on legal matters.

The Legal Resource Centre produces an informative radio program called "Legal Maze." The program is aired Fridays at 7 p.m. on Access Radio CKUA. After the twenty-six week series is run by CKUA, it will be re-broadcast by stations across the province. The current series is the fourth produced by the Centre.

The Legal Resource Centre maintains a service for assisting educational centres in the design of law education programs. In addition to this back-up service, the Centre can provide specially tailored courses, seminars, and training programs on law subjects. Over the past few years libraries throughout the province were contacted and invited to take advantage of the Centre's assistance in developing their own collections of legal materials. Largely as a result of this program, some thirty-five other public libraries in Alberta have law collections.

The Centre claims that one of its most popular services is the Speakers' Bureau. The Bureau consists of about 130 lawyers from across the province who have offered to act as speakers for educational programs or groups interested in various aspects of the law.

The Centre maintains an active program for the development of educational material for children and teens. In the past this involved a successful traveling puppet show. The Centre has several instructional kits for interested youth groups. These include information needed to conduct mock trials and analysis of legal issues.

The Legal Resource Centre is located in the Trade Centre South, 10047 81 Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta T6E 1W7. Telephone 432-5732. □
